Southern Development & Constructions Inc.

What factors contributed the most to your company's stability?

Long-term client relationships, repeat work with builders and general contractors and a team that stays through cycles. Vertical integration through ProVac, A-1 Paving, Sun Trucking & Materials and Concrete on Demand helps us control schedule and cost. Reinvestment in fleet, survey and safety, plus disciplined estimating, has kept us delivering more than 1,500 projects over 30-plus years in Central Florida.

How has the industry changed since your company's founding?

Since 1994, the region has grown from scattered subdivisions to large master-planned communities, theme-park expansions and major public roads. Specs, environmental rules and utility coordination are tighter. GPS, 3D models and digital survey replaced much of the old stake-and-grade workflow. Labor and material swings are sharper, so self-perform capacity and in-house trucking/paving matter more than they did when we started.

What technology is your company excited about?

GPS-guided earthmoving, 3D model-based survey and machine control and fleet GPS for utilization and safety. We are expanding AI systems, so field data, crews and management stay on one platform. Those tools cut rework on utilities, grading and paving and help us run 40-plus active jobs with tighter coordination between office and field.

How will your company innovate in the next few years?

We will keep integrating sitework, utilities, paving, trucking, vacuum and concrete, so clients get one accountable civil package. Next steps are more model-driven field work, equipment upgrades and growing specialty arms that protect schedule. We will stay focused on Central Florida infrastructure, healthcare, residential and attractions work rather than chasing work we cannot staff well.

What was the largest project your company worked on/accomplished in the last year?

Among recent large civil packages are Flemings Road Segments 5 and 6 for M/I Homes, including widening, signals, utilities, earthwork and paving involving numerous stakeholders; Lennar's Westside Boulevard Extension, AAA High School and the OCPS Bus Depot; and theme park and health care sitework, including Universal projects, the University of Central Florida Hospital and Orlando Health's Lake Mary campus.
